

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to a method and apparatus for initiating the delivery of a push message to a push destination associated with a communication device connected to a telephony network.